Major Issues to Be Decided by the American Voter

Control of the Seventieth Congress and of Nearly Two Thirds of the State Governments, Together With Prohibition Chief Issues in Today's Vote.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—The American voter today is recording his judgment on the personalities and issues that have come to him in a cross word puzzle campaign.

Control of the seventieth congress and of nearly two thirds of the state governments, as well as the extent to which prohibition is likely to figure in political affairs in the near future, are the major issues resting upon his decision.

Candidates and party managers were spurred to an unusual effort by reports from many sections of the country that a feeling almost of apathy had settled upon large groups of the electorate.

Last minute statements from the hostile political camps disclosed no change in the sweeping claims issued by the warring chieftains several days ago.

Democratic leaders still claimed a landslide which would give them control of both the senate and the house.

Spokesmen for the now dominant party declared such contentions were but optimistic bubbles which will burst with the counting of the votes after sundown.

To obtain control of the senate the Democratic party will have to pick up nine seats now held by Republicans, while they must sway 36 congress districts to get a majority of the house.

Many of the Republican togs at stake were won in the Harding landslide in 1920 and the house that is asking another tenure of office came into power in the Coolidge tidal wave of 1924.

Democrats Look For Turnovers. Pointing to this situation, Democratic managers maintain that by the presidency now at stake they can count on a number of turnovers involving seats in both houses. They also call attention that the seven Democratic senators to be elected are from the solid south where victory is certain.

The four border states—Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri and Oklahoma—as well as Arizona, are listed by the Democrats as already stricken from the Republican lists. Refusing to concede this, the Republicans claimed that these states, which frequently are found in the Democratic column, will remain within the G. O. P. fold.

Other states in which the Democrats believe they have a better than even chance are Massachusetts, New York, Ohio, Illinois and Colorado. In Idaho, Indiana, Nevada, Oregon, Utah and Washington they claim at least fighting chances.

Again countering Democratic predictions and hopes Republicans see all these states safely held in their present political status. They likewise are confident that few if any inroads will be made in their ranks in the house.

Here again the rival managers are found wide apart. Democratic leaders insist they will carry at least six Republican districts in Pennsylvania; will recapture a number of house seats that went to the Republican column in the Coolidge victory two years ago, and also win some districts which they contend are disaffected with administration policies.

Prohibition Referenda. In many of the contests for senate and house seats, prohibition has run through the whole fabric of the campaigns and in eight states the voters are expressing their views on this question in referenda. These states are New York, Nevada, Wisconsin, Illinois, Montana, Missouri, Colorado and California.

The proposals put forward range all the way from repeal of all state prohibition enforcement code to expressions of sentiment for guidance of representatives in the halls of congress.

Both wet and dry have been active in practically all of these contests as well as in the fights for offices in a number of states in which the issue is not brought to a direct vote. In Maryland, which has refused to adopt a state enforcement code, a last minute twist was given the campaign by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, which repudiated its endorsement of Senator Walter. Republicans, and came out for Representative Millard Tydings, his Democratic opponent.

Coolidge Aide Friend. Out of the ordinary developments served to focus widespread attention on a number of other senatorial fights. In Massachusetts President Coolidge came to the aid of his personal friend, Senator William M. Butler, in the contest against former Senator David I. Walsh.

The President made an overnight journey from Washington to Northampton to personally cast his ballot for the man who conducted his campaign for the presidency two years ago.

After Pomeroy seeks to regain in Ohio the senate seat he lost four years ago and should be secured many political supporters believe he would come as a figure on the Democratic presidential ticket. In Maryland, Governor Ritchie, who drew a controlling vote at Madison Square Garden in 1924, is attempting to win another gubernatorial term.

Feared activities by many candidates.

Supervisors Will Meet Next Week

The board of supervisors will meet in annual session at their rooms at the Ulster county court house on Tuesday evening, November 9, when the legislative business of the county will be taken up. At noon they will be organized as a board of county canvassers, a chairman selected who will name committees on examining the election returns, on reading the returns, and on tabulating the number of votes cast in the various districts of the towns and Kingston city, as shown by the returns. After the session of the board of supervisors Tuesday evening, the annual meeting of the members of the Supervisors' Association will be held in the court room. The members of the board are as follows:

Deenling, Martin Hamilton. Epopus, Harold V. Story. Gardner, Luther Dunsberg. Hardenbergh, William E. Avery. Hurley, Matthew T. E. DeWitt. Kingston, Lewis Hulsair, Jr. Lloyd, Philip Schantz. Marlborough, Frederick Davis. Marlborough, Edward Young. New Paltz, Daniel Shaw. Olive, Chester A. Lyons. Plattkill, James H. Heaton. Rochester, Alfred Markle. Rosendale, Rutger Ten Hagen. Saugerties, John C. Shults. Shandaken, James A. Simpson. Shawangunk, Joseph F. Scott. Ulster, Hugh M. Fergusson. Wawarsing, John D. Ripper. Woodstock, George H. Elwyn.

Twelfth Ward, J. Charles Snyder. Thirteenth Ward, Edward J. Ryan. Joseph F. Scott of the town of Shawangunk is chairman of the board of supervisors; Henry R. DeWitt, clerk; John W. Eckert, county attorney.

Mills and Smith Are Confident

Governor Believes New York City Will Indorse His Administration—Mills Sure That He Will Ride Into Albany on a Landslide.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Utmost confidence was expressed by the leaders of both major parties in the New York state election today.

Governor Smith's campaign manager predicted his re-election by a plurality of 400,000, which would be greater than he ever received before. The Governor himself made no estimate, but said he believed his Republican opponent, Ogden L. Mills, could not come to the Bronx with more than 90,000 plurality. The Governor was confident that New York City would indorse his administration with a huge vote and that his victory would carry into office the whole state ticket, including Robert F. Wagner, Democratic candidate for United States senator.

Mr. Mills is as sure that he will ride into Albany on a landslide. He said he believed there would be a crumbling of Tammany strength in its east side strongholds and that the upstate would rally to the Republican banner. He said he would hold Smith to a plurality of 275,000 in the city and himself win a plurality of 400,000 in the state outside the city.

James W. Wadsworth, Jr., Republican candidate for re-election to the senate, professed to be confident of victory although he faces not only the Democratic opposition but defection within his own party headed by Franklin W. Cristman, running on a dry Republican ticket. Cristman forces predicted his vote will be large but on the other hand the proponents of the state referendum for modification of the Volstead Act estimated the motion would be carried by a plurality of a million.

dates and some scattered charges of irregularities or threatened irregularities in the voting attended the winding of the campaign last night.

Accompanied by Robert Wagner, the Democratic senatorial candidate, Governor Smith made a series of speeches on his native soil, New York's east side. His opponent, Representative Ogden L. Mills, made his last appeal on Long Island, while Senator Wadsworth spoke in communities near his own home town.

Wash. Charges Vote Buying. An open charge of vote buying by Senator Butler's organizations in the senator's native town of New Bedford, was made by Senator Walsh, who claimed that votes were being bought at $10 each.

A proclamation calling for "special precautions to prevent ballot box frauds" in Pennsylvania was issued by Governor Phipps, who had promised that his administration would take every measure in its power "to prevent election frauds from carrying out their abominable practices and to punish them for the stealing of votes."

Legion Prepares For Victory Ball

Eighth Annual Victory Ball to Be Held at State Armory on Armistice Night, November 11.—Extraordinary Features This Year.

The Kingston social season will be formally opened on Armistice night, November 11, with the Eighth Annual Victory Ball given in the Kingston armory by the American Legion.

The Victory Ball is sponsored by the best people in Kingston, endorsed by the socially prominent, and the American Legion is preparing to accommodate an even larger and more distinguished assemblage than ever before.

The dance music, always an important feature of a successful ball, will be furnished by one of the world's few really great symphonic dance orchestras, the Ipana Troubadours, with "Smiling" Sam Lanin himself conducting. This orchestra, which charms audiences throughout the country over the radio on each Wednesday night at 9 o'clock over the WEAF chain of stations, is composed of musicians each one of which is a soloist of distinction. The bringing to Kingston of such a famous orchestra as the Ipana Troubadours is eloquent evidence that the Legion is doing everything possible to insure one of the biggest and most brilliant balls ever held in the local drill shed.

The amazing transformation of the armory into a ball-room of unusual beauty for last year's Victory Ball was the subject of considerable favorable comment. This year's decorations, by the same committee, promises to surpass in originality and striking effect anything ever before attempted.

For those who do not dance, a concert extraordinary, from 8 to 9, will alone be worth the price of admission. The program will include one of the best dual dancing acts ever seen in Kingston, a metropolitan artist will sing, and the announcement of the other acts which the entertainment committee is procuring will pack the armory at an early hour on Armistice night.

TO LAY CORNER-STONE OF ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

The laying of the corner-stone of the rebuilt St. John's Episcopal Church on Albany avenue will occur on Saturday afternoon of this week at 4 o'clock. The services, which will be out of doors, will be conducted by the Right Rev. William T. Manning, D. D., Bishop of New York, and will be participated in by the choir of St. John's Church. Besides many visiting clergy of nearby Episcopal Churches who will, with the choir and the bishop, form a processional, marching from the present temporary church to the new site, there will be invited to participate the clergy of this city of all denominations and it is hoped that Mayor Block will also be able to be present. The public is cordially invited to attend the services.

RELATIVES HOLLOWAYEN CELEBRATIONS BUSY.

Hollowayen was carried over from Saturday night by a great many folks. Monday evening there were a large number of youths on the streets with the usual cake of soap. This morning the merchants found that the windows cleaned so nicely on Monday were in need of another wash. The window cleaners who worked over time Monday found in many places their work had been for naught.

Whitney Restaurant and Lunch. The name of the Cadillac restaurant, 258 Fair street, has been changed to Whitney Restaurant and Lunch, remaining under the ownership of Mrs. Nora E. Mockett.

Queen Becomes Member of Sioux

Indian Tribe Makes Rumanian Queen a Blood Sister and "War Woman" in Recognition of Her Services During World War.

Queen Marie's Special Train en Route to Spokane, Nov. 2 (AP).—Queen Marie sped across Montana today with a blood spot on her finger and an eagle feather head dress as evidence of her rank as woman chieftain of the Sioux Indian nation.

She was made a blood sister and "war woman" of the tribe in Mandan yesterday. Before placing the feather bonnet on the queen's head, Chief Red Tomahawk, master of ceremonies, reputed slayer of Sitting Bull, took one of the queen's fingers and, without a sharp-edged flint, pricked the skin. Blood appeared but Marie only smiled. The test of courage was satisfactory and the symbolic bonnet was placed on her bobbed tresses.

Ordinarily, the designation "war woman" is given to Indians only when they have distinguished themselves on the field of battle. In the case of Queen Marie, the Indians recognized her services to Rumania during the World War as meriting the highest rank the tribe could bestow.

Immanuel Church Calls New Pastor

At a meeting of the congregation of Immanuel Lutheran Church on Sunday afternoon the Rev. Walter C. Birken of Elyria, Ohio, was chosen to succeed Pastor F. T. Schroeder who will leave shortly to assume his new duties at Concordia Institute, Bronxville, N. Y.

Mission Sunday will be observed on November 7 with an English service in the morning and a German service in the evening. The Rev. H. Birken, president of the Atlantic district of the Missouri synod, will preach in both services. A children's missionary service will also be held in the afternoon. The offering of the day will be given entirely to missions. The evening service will also be a communion service. Registration for communion is requested on Tuesday afternoon and evening between the hours of 3 and 9 o'clock.

The annual Walther League evening will be observed on Friday evening with a short service at 7:30 and a social hour afterward. The pastor will preach the sermon which will deal with the young people's work. E. G. Rabe, the field secretary of the New England District of the Walther League, will also speak. Mr. Rabe always comes with a message and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance. The proceeds of the evening will be used to meet the league dues of Immanuel Young People's Society.

Time Points: White Polo on Washington avenue (between Warren and Pearl). John street and Clinton avenue. Albany and Foxhall avenues. Broadway and Cedar street.

Expect Normal Vote in Kingston

The polls opened this morning at 6 o'clock and will close this evening at 6 o'clock. Owing to the heavy rain storm during the early morning hours the vote cast was light in many of the wards. Later in the morning the rain stopped falling and the sun came out for a while.

In some of the wards, however, the rain did not interfere with the vote cast. At 7:00 o'clock this morning in the Eighth ward nearly one hundred ballots had been cast. At the city hall polling place in the Third ward at the same hour less than twenty-five votes had been cast.

Both the political parties were busy throughout the day writing out the vote and at all of the polling places both parties had automobiles stationed to convey the voters to the polls. It was expected that the normal vote would be cast before the polls closed at 6 o'clock this evening.

WERNEREN POINT PICKED UP THREE RUNAWAY BOTS

Police Headquarters here were notified Monday that the police department of Werneren had picked up Walter Tjelt of 29 East Third street; Leo Leski of 122 New York avenue, and Edward Nichols, of 25 East Third street, all boys about 15 or 16 years old, and asking the local police to notify the parents of the boys, which was done.

Belt Line Busses on Half Hour Time

Operation of Belt Line on Twenty Minute Headway Added to Mileage and Expenses But Did Not Increase Number of Passengers—Other Changes in Effect Wednesday.

When the city bus lines were first placed in operation here, the belt line busses were operated on a half hour headway, but about a month ago the trolley road, in an effort to increase business and afford better transportation facilities to those using the busses, started operating on a twenty minute headway. After a month's trial it has been found that there has been no increase in the number of patrons using the busses, although the busses have increased their daily mileage by a hundred miles, which has added to the operating expenses of the line.

By the busses operating on the twenty minute headway it was also necessary for the drivers to drive the busses much faster, and as a result a number of complaints were received from patrons who were left behind as the bus driver not finding a patron waiting on a street corner did not stop.

Half Hour Headway Wednesday. After a careful survey of the situation the trolley road has decided that the belt line can afford better transportation facilities by returning to the original half hour headway, which will be placed in force Wednesday morning.

The water department has finished for the season the work of extending the new water mains and the bus lines Wednesday will resume the original operations as to running time and route. That means that the busses will no longer run through Wall street, and that Wednesday morning the trolley cars will resume trips over the uptown business loop. While the busses have been using Wall street the trolley cars have run only as far as the R.-G.-R. store.

Schedule, Beginning Wednesday. The schedule in effect Wednesday morning shows that the busses will operate over several new streets, adding to the transportation facilities of the public. The schedule follows:

Broadway and Cedar street.—Over Cedar street to Clinton avenue, over Clinton to Henry street, over Henry to Pine street, over Pine to Greenkill avenue, over Greenkill to Wall street, over Wall to Linderman avenue, over Linderman to Washington avenue, down Washington to North Front street, up North Front street to Clinton avenue, over Clinton to Albany avenue, over Albany to Foxhall avenue, over Foxhall avenue to O'Neill street, over O'Neill to Broadway, down Broadway to Broadway and Cedar street—the place of beginning.

Bus leaves Cedar street and Broadway, for over Washington avenue, on the even hour and 30's. First bus leaves Broadway and Cedar street, toward Washington avenue at 5:50 a. m., in order to arrive back at Broadway and Cedar street to catch the 6:32 a. m. train. Bus going in this direction will continue until 11:30 p. m., leaving on even hour and 30's.

Bus leaves Cedar street and Broadway, for over O'Neill street, on the 15's and 45's. First bus leaves Broadway and Cedar street over O'Neill street at 6:45 a. m. Last trip for over O'Neill street is at 8:45 p. m., leaving on the 15's and 45's.

Sundays—Busses start one hour later. White Polo on Washington avenue (between Warren and Pearl). John street and Clinton avenue. Albany and Foxhall avenues. Broadway and Cedar street.

Cameron Pleads Guilty to Larceny

Red Hook Youth Pleads Guilty in County Court to Stealing Motorcycle at Saugerties—No Charge Yet Against Man Who Cut Wife.

A brief session of county court was held Monday afternoon with County Judge Joseph M. Fowler presiding.

Richard Cameron, 20 years old, of Red Hook was arraigned on information filed with the court and after a plea of guilty to the charge of grand larceny, second degree, had been entered, his case was adjourned until Monday when the court will impose sentence. Cameron is charged with having taken a motorcycle in the town of Saugerties. He was held by Police Justice Clyde Gardner to await the action of the grand jury. He requested that he be prosecuted under information. It is alleged the act was committed on October 3 last.

The matter of committing Leo Cessna of Union Center to an institution was brought to the attention of the court. Leo was formerly in an institution for a time. A few days ago he cut his wife, inflicting serious injuries. Dr. George W. Ross, who was called to attend to her injuries, took Cessna into custody and turned him over to the city police who in turn turned him over to the sheriff. Up to the present time there has been no charge made against him and unless a charge is made he will have to be returned either to Poughkeepsie or the Middletown State Hospital. The act of cutting his wife, however, is of a criminal nature and he would be sent to Matteawan if a charge was made. Dr. E. H. Loughran and Dr. J. J. Dudenhausen examined him as to his mental condition and found him eligible to commitment to an institution.

The matter was held in abeyance until Wednesday to determine if a charge is to be made against him. Judge Fowler ordered an extra panel of 20 jurors drawn from the county box to be in attendance at the adjourned date of county court.

Where to Hear Election Returns

Issues Voters in Eastern States Decide Today

Presidential Aspirations of Two Democrats, Prestige of President in His Home State and Progress of Prohibition Modification at Stake in North Atlantic States.

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Presidential aspirations of two Democrats, the prestige of President Coolidge in his home state, and the progress of the prohibition modification movement were at stake in the North Atlantic States today as the nation went to the polls.

In New York Governor Alfred E. Smith, running at the head of the Democratic state ticket for the fifth time, was confident of his fourth victory, which his friends say, should make him the standard bearer in the national struggle two years hence. His Republican opponent, Ogden L. Mills, voiced confidence that he would knock the Democratic champion out of the ring.

James W. Wadsworth, Jr., United States Senator, faced by the defection of dry Republicans, had a hard battle on his hands to retain his seat against his Democratic opponent, Robert F. Wagner.

The state is voting on a referendum to ask congress to authorize state determination of the alcoholic content of beverages, and the proponents of the measure predict its adoption by a mill majority. The heads of both tickets have advocated such a referendum. It was on that policy that Franklin W. Cristman, independent dry Republican, bolter the Wadsworth nomination.

Modification Helps Ritchie. In Maryland sentiment for a modification of the Volstead Act strengthened the position of Governor Albert O. Ritchie who is looked upon by his friends as a strong contender for the next Democratic presidential nomination. Organized anti-prohibition support was thrown late yesterday to Millard E. Tydings, for the United States Senate against the Republican incumbent, O. E. Weller, although William D. Ushaw, the militant Georgian dry, took the stump for Tydings. Addison F. Milliken, Republican nominee for governor, made a strong campaign against Ritchie, basing his attack on state water power issues.

Close Fight in Massachusetts. In Massachusetts Senator William M. Butler, Republican, has received the endorsement of President Coolidge, who, with Mrs. Coolidge, left Washington to vote for him in Northampton today. Former Senator David I. Walsh, Democratic candidate for the senate, favors modification of the Volstead act.

Mr. Walsh charged yesterday that Republicans had been buying votes in Senator Butler's home town of New Bedford at a price of $7 to $10 each. Senator Butler replied that he would not insult the Massachusetts electorate by any inference that their votes were for sale.

Political observers forecast a close contest as Walsh is personally very popular and sure to roll up a large vote in Boston. The campaign has attracted the attention of the country because it is the only state contest in which the President has openly indicated a preference.

Pennsylvania Contest. The contest in Pennsylvania, where a United States senator is to be elected, was by no means as exciting as the primary struggle in which William S. Vare won the nomination from Senator Pepper. His Democratic opponent, William B. Wilson, concentrated his attack on the huge sums spent in that primary and had the assistance on the stump of Senator George W. Norris, Republican from Nebraska.

Even should Vare win in this decidedly Republican state he may have a hard fight in the senate to make good his claim to the seat. Governor Phipps, Republican, following nor Phipps, Republican, issued a proclamation calling for "special precautions to prevent ballot-box frauds" in Pennsylvania. The election of John S. Fisher, Republican candidate for governor, is predicted by his friends, over Eugene C. Bannwell.

In Connecticut. In Connecticut Senator Hiram Bingham and Governor John D. Tamm will seek re-election on the Republican ticket opposed by Robin T. Taylor and Charles G. Norris, Democrats. The campaign was centered on state issues, mostly in regard to highway costs.

Could Wins in Maine. In the other states in the North Atlantic district the contests were not so close. New Jersey Democrats are demanding modification of the dry laws and in West Virginia the Republicans appealed for support of the national administration. Rhode Island is choosing a governor and Vermont and New Hampshire vote for a governor and a senator. Maine held its election a month ago and yesterday held a primary election in which Arthur H. Gould won the Republican nomination for the senatorial seat made vacant by the death of Senator Bert M. Fernald, the election to be November 22.

Meeting of Lower Church League. There will be a meeting of the Lower Church League on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. All churches interested in social life or bowling are requested to have representatives at the meeting.

A FRANK CYCLOPS.

The renewed Indiana investigation by Senator Reed's committee may prove as barren of definite results as the first effort. To prove a corrupt copartnership between Ku Klux Klan officials and politicians was widely regarded as an undertaking too difficult for any considerable measure of success, witnesses to the alleged contracts ready to go on oath publicly—and take the consequences—naturally being scarce and wary birds. But the preliminary investigation at least added something to the outsider's knowledge of Klan affairs, and there was one witness, a former Exalted Cyclops, who chuckled over his own reminiscences while furnishing amusement for all who listened.

The Cyclops of Greek mythology was a terrifying one-eyed giant, but this ex-Cyclops appeared to be as kindly as he is fat and merry. Asked what a Klansman is, Pat Emmons (former Exalted Cyclops) replied: "A white Protestant Gentile native-born American with ten dollars." It was implied that his $10 was his most important qualification. Ex-Cyclops Pat discoursed, amid gusts of laughter, upon some of the high-and-mighty officials of the August hierarchy. He said that above the Exalted Cyclops is the Terror, and above him and more terrible still is the Grand Klaxok. According to Pat, the intellectual rating of these and other high-mightinesses is not very first-class. "The Imperial Wizard could make 'em believe anything. That's why we keep the visors down. Dr. Evans told me the Klan would die of its own morose if we did not keep the visors down." The account of the testimony before us states that most of the profits are pocketed by the Grand Dragons, and the profits are vast, derived not only from the $10 initiation fee but from the sale of "robes" and "paraphernalia." Apparently Pat Emmons is convinced that the Klan coins money—for the benefit of its more exalted and high-placed majesties.

MOTHERED BY A WOLF.

Most readers of Kipling's "Jungle Book" have supposed that Mowgli was a pure feat of the imagination, but folk tales current in India furnished plentiful basis, and now comes a story from that mysterious land the verity of which seems to have the support of reputable persons. An English Bishop of Calcutta is quoted by the Westminster Gazette as vouching for the strange story told by a native Christian missionary in a village of Bengal. The story is that in a remote jungle two little girls, aged about two and eight years, were mothered by a she-wolf after being abandoned by their parents. The foundlings were reared with great difficulty, being "exceedingly fierce, running on all-fours, uttering guttural barks, and living as wolves." The story goes that the younger girl died, but the older survives at the mission orphanage, "still weak mentally, but gentle with animals and preferring dogs to children."

Such stories have been current ever since the ancient Greeks believed Atlanta was suckled by a she-bear and the old Roman legend told how Remulus and Remus were suckled by a wolf, and there must have been facts of human experience to provide at least some slight basis. One would naturally expect this to be granted by the moderns who insist on human descent from the lower animals and thus on a real kinship between man and beast. Yet, curiously enough, these hold this view are the most prompt of all to dismiss such stories as the above as lacking in scientific evidence.

THE HEN CHAMPION.

In this year of the twentieth of a few former champions, a new champion among laying hens has come crowing to the front. A Plymouth Rock hen of Honesdale, Pa., has captured the record by laying 329 eggs in one year, or almost one egg a day. This is said to be five eggs above the great record of a Pacific Coast hen and thirteen above the record of the once famed Lady Eglantine, a white Leghorn of Philadelphia. The Virginia champion, now cackling loudly enough even if she can not crow, is said to be a product of the breeder who strives for perfection of form and feathering than for fecundity. Obviously this is striving of the right sort, for a hen's fecundity is much more important than her looks. Her business is to lay eggs, not to carry a vanity bag and promote fighting among rival "roosters".

We read that both Federal and State governments encourage experiments with a view to increase the fecundity of hens, and of course, the more successful experiments are well worth while. The average American hen lays only about 90 eggs a year. Think of the enormous increase of revenue if the majority of hens could be induced to approximate the Virginia queen's record, or even to produce 200 eggs a year. It is said that only to double the 90-year average egg yield of American hens would add hundreds of millions of dollars to the country's income.

MUMORISTS AND THE TEETH.

Our humorists these days have added a new one to their regular stock of jokes. It is to the effect that when the physician is in doubt as to the cause of an ailment he blames it on the teeth, and the poor patient has to sacrifice some, or perhaps all his teeth.

There may be an occasional case where teeth are removed unnecessarily, but it is certainly the exception. It is only natural to want to retain your own teeth; they fit your mouth, and can chew foods as no artificial teeth can ever do.

However, as mentioned before, when Mayo, our leading surgeon, and Price, the outstanding dentist of America, both tell us that it is foolish on our part to retain bad teeth, and criminal of dentists to advise us to retain them, then there must be a real basis for their stand in this matter.

That "rheumatism" of the joints, as it is called, was frequently due to bad teeth, was definitely proven when these cases cleared up completely a few weeks or months after the removal of the teeth.

However, research men have followed this up more closely, and have found cases of stomach and intestinal ulcer where the exciting cause would be definitely traced to bad teeth. The poisons were carried down with the food in some cases, and in others by means of the blood. Acute heart conditions causing grave symptoms have been due to the little organisms and their poisons, which originated in an abscess or abscesses of the teeth.

Persistent irritations have disappeared by removing these abscessed teeth.

Kidney and thyroid ailments are also among those actually due to this cause.

So don't join in with the humorists in thinking that bad teeth causing trouble in other parts of the body is a joke. It is all right of course to do this if you and yours are free from ailments, but it ceases to be a joke, it becomes really a tragedy, if in your wisdom, or your stubbornness rather, you retain bad teeth in your head.

You are really inviting sickness, perhaps death.

Today's Story in New York History

By Frederic A. Godcharles.

(Copyright, 1926, by the Author)

Fort Washington Lost to British Through Treason of Adjutant William Donost, November 2, 1776.

Four of the military events of the American Revolution occurred upon the island of New York: first, the landing at Kips Bay and the occupation of the city by the British army on September 15, 1776; second, the action at Harlem Plain on the succeeding day; third, the capture of Fort Washington two months afterwards, and the evacuation of the island; and fourth, the victorious entry of General Washington and his Continental troops on November 25, 1783.

The storming and capture of Fort Washington, with its fort, garrison, armament and stores, by the army of Sir William Howe, on November 16, 1776, was the first and last great battle ever fought on Manhattan Island since its settlement by Europeans. It was a terrible disaster to the American arms, and a heavy blow to the cause of the colonies. It gave to the British the undisputed possession of the city and harbor of New York, then, as now, the chief seaport of America.

Fort Washington was a pentagonal bastioned earthwork, built by Colonel Rufus Putnam soon after the evacuation of Boston. It occupied the highest ground at the northern end of Manhattan Island at what is now 182nd street, New York city. It mounted eighteen guns of various calibres, and was garrisoned by less than 2,000 troops, mostly Pennsylvanians, who were commanded by Colonel Magaw, a brave and capable officer.

The ground about the fort was well situated for defense, and the works not only protected the upper part of Manhattan Island, but in conjunction with Fort Lee, on the palisades opposite, commanded the Hudson. However, from their too elevated positions and distance from each other, their feeble armament was unable to close the river to British vessels of war, and Washington did not deem it expedient to weaken his force for field operations, by maintaining a large garrison on the island, then practically in the hands of the enemy.

Howe, on November 15, demanded the surrender of Fort Washington, stating that if he were compelled to take it by assault, the garrison would be put to the sword. Colonel Magaw replied that to purpose such an alternative was unworthy of a British officer, and that, for himself, he would defend the fort to the last extremity.

On the next day, a combined attack was made by Howe's forces, under a cover of artillery fire from the east bank of the Harlem. Colonel Lambert Cadwalader, commanding the outworks, was the first to succumb. Baxter was killed, and finally, after a gallant resistance against overwhelming numbers and a heavy artillery fire, Magaw was obliged to surrender to General Knyphausen on honorable terms.

The British admitted a loss of more than five hundred killed and wounded; the American casualties were one hundred and fifty killed and wounded, two thousand six hundred and thirty-four taken prisoners of war, and thirty-four pieces of artillery. Into British hands thus passed, for the time being, the whole of New York Island.

It seems to have been Howe's intention to attack Fort Washington immediately after his victory at White Plains, and he was, doubtless, confirmed in his intention by information due to the treason of William Donost, the adjutant of Colonel Magaw. This man passed undiscovered into the British camp and placed the important information in the hands of Lord Percy. The conclusive evidence of this treason is furnished by the culprit himself in his letter, dated London, January 16, 1792, to the Rev. Dr. Peters, a clergyman of the Church of England.

He says: "On the 2d of Nov'r, 1776, I sacrificed all I was worth in the world to the service of my King and Country and joined the then Lord Percy, brought in with me the Plans of Fort Washington, by which Plans that Fortress was taken by his Majesty's Troops the 16th Instant. Together with 2700 Prisoners and Stores & Ammunition to the amount of 1800 Pound."

Such was the treason of William Donost, and his statement not only explains the promptness and precision of the British attack but also discloses the fact that he was decorated by the King for services and shared the fate his treacherous act deserved.

He further wrote: "I may with Justice affirm, from my knowledge of the Works, I saved the Lives of many of His Majesty's Subjects,—these are facts well known to every General Officer which was then—and I may with truth declare from that time I studied the Interest of my Country and neglected my own,—in the Language of Cardinal Wolsey, had I served my God as I have done my King he would not thus have forgiven me."

SPRINGTOWN RESIDENTS VISIT THE CAPITOL.

Springtown, Nov. 2.—The members of the Ladies' Aid of the Springtown Little Chapel and their friends made a trip to Albany on Wednesday, October 27, in Van Gonsle's green bus. The bus left Springtown at eight o'clock and arrived in Albany about 11:45. The ladies had prepared a splendid luncheon and although the day was ideal it was a little too chilly to eat on the lawn, so luncheon was served in the bus, and all enjoyed it. Ask the boys who ate all the cake; guess the girls will also.

It was a very pleasant trip going from Springtown to Tilton, Kingston, Saugerties, Catskill and Albany.

About one o'clock a trip was made through the capitol. Governor Smith was expected to be there but was suddenly called to New York city. Our guide in taking us through the corridors, explained that the entire building was constructed of stone and marble only the fourth floor had iron girders due to the building sinking. All the stone and marble being imported from every county was placed in the capitol, then finished and carved. And no two pieces were cut alike. The flooring came from England, the walls from Scotland. If the marble was studied closely one could see a beefsteak, heads of horses and pigs. Next was the million dollar staircase, the red stone coming from Italy. The corner posts were carved and the only likeness of Abraham Lincoln in sculpture or point was carved on one post. Around the arches the different governors are carved. This staircase was seven years under construction.

Next the Senate Chamber was visited. The desks as well as the old grandfather's clock was made of mahogany, the wood being brought to the capitol and hand carved. The leather came from Morocco and the chairs are hand carved. Next came the Assembly room. This, too, is a beautiful room, same as the Senate only larger and having four marble pillars weighing about thirty tons each, the base being snowflake granite, coming from New York state, which made us swell with pride. Then the governor's chamber was visited and all felt proud that we could sit in the governor's chair. Even little Abram Deyo said, "Some day I may be governor," as he sat in the chair. We hope he will. The only pictures in this room that were not of governors were Lafayette and Washington.

Again out in the corridor an oil painting of Abraham Lincoln was viewed, also a picture of Niagara Falls which took seven years to paint and was presented to the capitol gratis by the artist who later received a gift of ten thousand dollars.

The State Education Building was next but the hour was late and we started our pleasant trip home with the expectation of visiting Albany again when the time will be spent in the Education Building.

The route back was Reuelacker, Red Hook, Hudson, Rhinebeck, Poughkeepsie, New Paltz and old home town. The view along the route was very pretty, some good farms and orchards being seen. A very pretty sunset was also seen.

Among the riders were: Mr. and Mrs. Abram Deyo, Mr. and Mrs. J. Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. A. Atkins, Mr. and Mrs. J. Fitch, Mrs. Charles Morris, Mrs. R. Atkins, Mrs. A. G. Stoddardman, Mrs. P. Goar, Mrs. L. Canfield, the Misses Margaret Eiting, Ellen Sullivan, Eva Mac Murdy, Alice Slatter, Violet Atkins, the Messrs. Abram Deyo, G. Goar, G. K. MacMurdy, Marshall MacMurdy, J. G. Bleimeyer, Richard Dicker, Cornelius Slatter, George Atkins.

On October 6th a pleasant trip was made to Danbury, Conn., paying a visit to the fair.

VARICOSE VEINS REDUCED OR MONEY BACK, SAYS WM. F. DEDRICK'S

This Simple Home Treatment Giving Amazing Results.

The world progresses. Today ailments that took weeks to cure can now be ended in a few days. If you have varicose veins or bunions you can start today to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning as directed to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required. After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and by regular use will soon reduce to normal.

Moore's Emerald Oil, besides being one of the most powerful of antiseptics, capable of destroying the most pernicious germs and the poisons caused by them, is also a marvelous healing agent.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, or get rid of eczema, ulcers, or piles in a few days should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is so powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any pharmacy can supply you, Wm. F. Dedrick's sells lots of it.

On Fashions

The Election of Long Lines Is Unanimous. Although Liberties Are Taken That Suggest Curves Rather Than Angles.

The straight line has been tampered with, but not greatly to its detriment. The addition of waist-length V-necklines, filled in with a contrasting material to accentuate the V, is helpful in offsetting the blouse and other disturbances of lines that were heretofore flowing. Pleats are also helpful in slenderizing, and such little devices as turn them in the opposite direction at a given point are resorted to, so that the efforts of the copyist may be more difficult and so that such a gown may be distinguished from straight pleated effects.

There is a marked tendency to hug the hip-line rather snugly. Sometimes it is by virtue of a gipsy or other belt, sometimes by a tightened band or by some emphasis that tends to draw attention to the hips. Naturally, a blouse that is loose above tends to make the hip-line appear smaller.

Model in Black Flat Crepe Affected Deep Pleats Stretched to the Hip-line and Bordered With Green Crepe to Match the Long Vestee. A Long Scarf Collar is Held in Place at a Low Waist-line by a Gold Buckle.

Waist-lines, in spite of dire predictions and prophecies, have rather a difficult time rising in the world. Most women prefer them low, for very excellent and obvious reasons. Belts are more often added than not, and have formed the habit of resting on the hip instead of slipping over it.

One of the most sensational fashion developments has to do with a possible return to sheer black stockings. There has been a general feeling that nude shades have more than had their day, and for some time the smarter shops have reported a demand for slightly darker tones. Now one hears of gunmetal and sheer blacks, and actually sees well-dressed women wearing them. True oxford and gunmetal are more frequent than black, but with the black evening gown one dare not compromise. It must be the light nude stocking of the sheer black one.

IF MOTHERS ONLY KNEW

Many children are suffering from Measles, Mumps, Whooping Cough, and other diseases. It is important for mothers to know the signs and symptoms of these diseases and to take prompt action to prevent complications. The following are some of the signs and symptoms of these diseases: Measles: fever, cough, coryza, and a characteristic rash. Mumps: swelling of the salivary glands. Whooping Cough: severe coughing fits. It is important to consult a doctor if you suspect your child has one of these diseases.

LAST NIGHT
on THE RADIO

Reception last night was again good in spots—but there were very few good spots. Generally there was weakness and static. There were various freaks, such as WBAP, Fort Worth, Texas, being received while WTIC was on the air and putting WTIC entirely out with the exception of a slight squeal. WBAP was fully as loud as WEAF.

WTAM was good and at 10 o'clock was very strong. WLW went from strong to silence and back again. WBAP and WJAR gave the WEAF program better than WEAF did.

WJZ showed an unusual amount of distortion, which could be corrected by using a directional loop and turning it to what would normally be the wrong position.

It was a fine night for the experimenter who delights in uncovering various forms of freak reception.

SOME CHOICE RECIPES.

For variety try this recipe; it is as pleasing to the palate as it sounds:
Stuffed Pork Chop.—Have pork chops cut one and one-half inches thick, split each chop to the bone and stuff with a bread crumbs seasoned with melted butter and eggs and onion, pepper and salt. Roll in cracker crumbs and beat on egg and fry in deep fat until brown on both sides. Now place in a baking pan and cover with the following: One small can of tomatoes, one small onion chopped, one tablespoonful of butter, a teaspoonful of sugar and one of salt. Fasten together with a toothpick before frying and bake until thoroughly well done.

Olive Salad.—Take one cupful of stoned olives, two cupfuls of celery chopped fine, four hard-cooked eggs diced fine. Mix with a cupful of mayonnaise and serve on lettuce.

Raisin Fudge Cake.—Cream together one and one-half cupfuls of brown sugar and one-half cupful of butter, add two egg yolks, one cupful of chopped raisins, four ounces of melted chocolate, one-half cupful each of hot water and sour milk, two and one-half cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of soda, one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon and one-fourth teaspoonful of cloves. Bake in sheet pan in moderate oven. Cover with boiled frosting, using the two egg whites and two cupfuls of sugar, adding water to moisten and boil to a thread, pouring over the beaten egg white. Sprinkle a half cupful of blanched almonds over the top of the cake.

Vegetable Curry.—Mix one cupful each of cooked carrots, potatoes, turnips and peas together. Pour over them one cupful of white sauce, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, one-fourth teaspoonful of curry powder, all cooked in the white sauce. On a large platter heap seasoned mashed potato, with plenty of butter dotted over it, make a border and brown in the oven. Pour the vegetable curry into the border and sprinkle the whole with finely minced parsley. Serve very hot.

Vegetable Curry.—Mix one cupful each of cooked carrots, potatoes, turnips and peas together. Pour over them one cupful of white sauce, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, one-fourth teaspoonful of curry powder, all cooked in the white sauce. On a large platter heap seasoned mashed potato, with plenty of butter dotted over it, make a border and brown in the oven. ## PORKY PIG

"There comes a time in the life of every pig," said Porky, a wondering and a-thinking as to whether he has made the most of himself."

"Well, well, grunt, grunt," said Miss Ham, "and what is the meaning of all this fine talk?"

"Squeal, squeal," said Mrs. Pinky Pig, "pry tell us what you mean."

"Yes, do, grunt, grunt," said Mrs. Pinky Pig.

"By all means, squeal, squeal," said Master Pink Pig.

"Oh, yes, grunt, grunt," said Master Pink Pig.

"Tell us, squeal, squeal," said Pink Pig's mother.

"Explain, grunt, grunt," said Pinky Pig's mother.

"Let us hear now, squeal, squeal," said Little Black Squealer.

"We'd like to know, grunt, grunt," said Sir Percival Pork.

"We'd like to be told, squeal, squeal," said Sir Benjamin Bacon.

"Explain, explain, grunt, grunt," said Sammy Sausage.

"Let us hear, squeal, squeal," said Brother Bacon.

"Do tell us, grunt, grunt," said Mrs. Brown and Black Pig who had come to visit for a while.

"Well," said Grandfather Porky Pig, "I have been wondering what I have said I was wondering."

"And I have been thinking what I said I was thinking."

"But we don't understand, grunt, grunt," said Miss Ham.

"We don't understand, squeal, squeal," said Mrs. Pinky Pig.

"We don't understand, grunt, grunt," said Mrs. Pinky Pig.

"We really don't, squeal, squeal," said Master Pink Pig.

"We want it explained, grunt, grunt," said Pink Pig's mother.

"You'll have to explain better than you have, squeal, squeal," said Pinky Pig's mother.

"We don't understand, squeal, squeal," said Little Black Squealer.

"We don't understand, grunt, grunt," said Sir Percival Pork.

"We'd like to be told, squeal, squeal," said Sir Benjamin Bacon.

"We don't understand, grunt, grunt," said Sammy Sausage.

"We don't understand, squeal, squeal," said Brother Bacon.

"We really don't understand, grunt, grunt," said Mrs. Brown and Black Pig.

"Well, well," said Grandfather Porky, "It is this way. Every once in a while a man, so I've heard the farmers say, will stop and think."

"He will stop and think seriously, too."

"He will say to himself: 'Now, have I made as much of myself as I could have done?'"

"People all over stop every once in a while and say something like that to themselves."

"They wonder and they think if it isn't just possible that they could have amounted to more than they have."

"They wish they could have been more famous, or more successful, or make more money for the hard work they do, or be more appreciated for the labor they do."

"They wish they could stand higher in the world than they do, not in actual height but in the opinions of those around them and in their own opinion, too."

"So it is that I, Porky Pig, grandfather of the Pig Pen, have been wondering and a-thinking if I have made the most of myself."

"I am wondering if I am as big a pig as I should be."

"I am wondering if the farmer and the farmer's family really appreciate what a fine, massive, noble pig I am."

"I am wondering if I got enough food for all the most-work I put in to the ground."

"I am thinking whether I get the appreciation for my mere presence in the farmyard that I should receive."

"In fact, I am wondering and a-thinking if I have really made the most of my pig self. It is a thought that comes to all great creatures once in a while when they happen to feel modest or discouraged."

"Oh, Porky," the others all grunted.

"Oh, Porky."

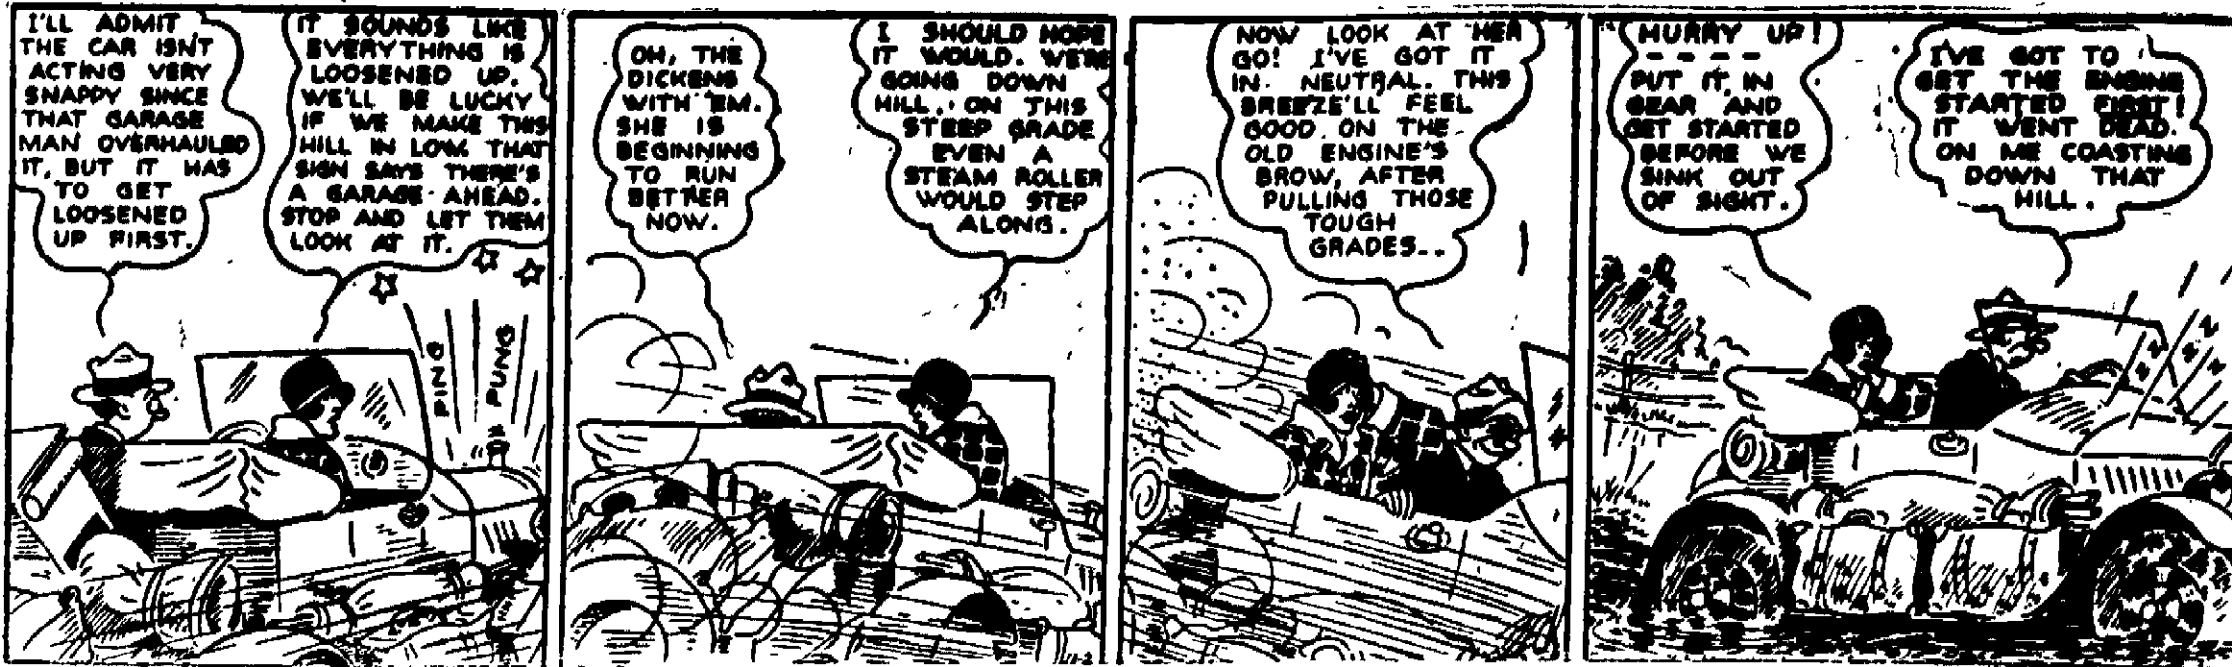

"Make Her a Turkey"

Ted was much disappointed when he was told the new baby was a girl. He had looked forward to having a brother to play with her, he said happily to his mother. "Oh, well, mother, maybe between us we can make a turkey out of her."

"Rays Make Man Lay"

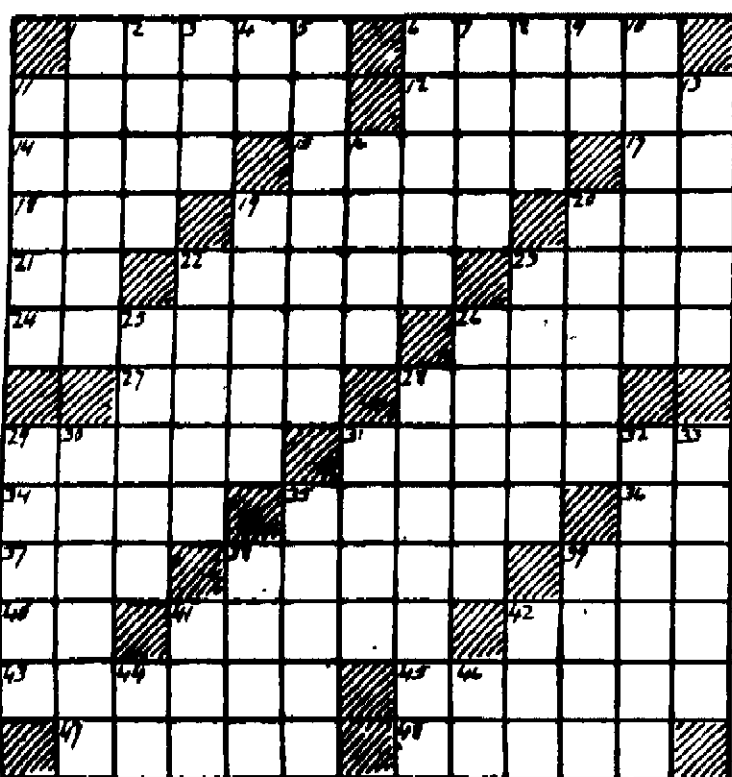

Ultra-violet rays, besides making animals and human beings grow dark, have a tendency to make boys lay off, according to French doctors who have been at work in this field. It is said also that the rays will make girls give more and better milk.

Fascist Demand Death of Enemies Of Mussolini

Grand Council of Fascists Will Consider Demand That All Enemies of Mussolini Be Killed—Believe Duce Has Chained Life.

Rome, Nov. 2 (AP).—"Nothing short of death to all enemies of Benito Mussolini will satisfy us," is the official edict of the Fascist party, enunciated by its secretary general, Signor Turati. A demand is to be made of the council of the Fascist party for putting to death not only future assassins of the premier but of the three men Zaniboni, Capello and Lucetti, now under arrest in connection with past plots to assassinate Il Duce.

Signor Turati thundered the Fascist party's demand for the death of Mussolini's enemies to a crowd estimated at 50,000 under Mussolini's window in Colonna square last night. Blackshirts in procession in every city and town in Italy repeated it and it was printed in large black type upon the front pages of the newspapers.

"Yes, death! Hang all of them," was shouted back at Turati by the listening multitude.

"Not only those who lift their hand against our Duce," Turati continued, "but also every single person who indirectly or directly acts as an instigator or accomplice must meet a similar fate—not only those who dare endanger Italy again, but those who already have done so."

The meeting of the grand council of the Fascists which will consider the demands of Turati and the Black Shirts in general, will be held next Friday. Mussolini was still at his home in Toril last night and did not hear the speech of Turati.

Although the authorities believe that Anteo Zamboni, the youth who on Sunday attempted to assassinate Mussolini and was killed by Black Shirts, was the agent of anti-Fascists, no proof of this has been adduced. Possible accomplices are being searched for.

The sixth narrow escape of the premier from death is increasing the belief among the people of his invulnerability. Even Pope Pius is of the opinion that Il Duce bears a charmed life. "This is a new sign that Mussolini has God's full protection," the pontiff said in commenting on his escape from the assassin's bullet in Bologna.

BOBBED HAIR LOSING CASTE AMONG FOUR HUNDRED

New York, Nov. 2 (AP).—Another opera season has been launched by the Metropolitan opera season has been launched by the Metropolitan Opera Company, and today hundreds of New York women know "what the well dressed woman will wear" on formal occasions this winter.

Bobbed hair apparently has lost caste in the four hundred, for long, wavy locks were on the heads of debutantes and matrons in the diamond horseshoe at the opening of the new opera and social season last night.

New York's social leaders presented a symphony of colors, with white predominating in boxes and parquet, and other women studied their gowns through opera glasses with all the interest a scientist might show in studying a butterfly.

Rebekahs to Attend Services.

The members of Colonial Rebekah Lodge, No. 48, are requested to meet at the late home of departed sister, Margaret Flicker, 10 Park avenue, at 8 o'clock on Wednesday evening, November 3, for Rebekah funeral services. All Rebekahs are asked to attend.

Society Notes

D. A. R. Meeting.

The November meeting of Wilkes Chapter, D. A. R., will be held at the Chapter House on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with local board meeting at 2 o'clock. The program will consist of an address by Poulney Bigelow on the subject, "France and America One Hundred and Fifty Years Ago." The hostesses will be Mrs. Charles Terwilliger and Mrs. William C. Kingman.

Hunt-Riseley.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Riseley of Woodstock, was the scene of a very pretty autumn wedding on Sunday, October 31, at 1 o'clock when their daughter, Orpha, was married to Leroy Hunt, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Hunt of Tarrytown, N. Y. Mrs. Rose Kixes of New York city was maid of honor and Russell Hunt of Tarrytown acted as his brother's best man. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Harvey I. Todd, pastor of the Reformed Church of Woodstock. Following the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served. After a honeymoon spent in New York city, Mr. and Mrs. Hunt will make their home in Tarrytown.

Sorosis.

Sorosis met on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George B. Styles, Jr. Following the routine business, three new members were received, Mrs. Grove J. Brown, Mrs. L. H. Wilson, Mrs. James Gibbons. It was decided to hold a card party at the home of Mrs. Grover C. Lasher, Lucas avenue, November 15, in order to raise funds to pay the expenses of a delegate to the state convention of the State Federation of Women's Clubs to be held at Binghamton, November 8 to 12, inclusive.

Mrs. Lasher will be the delegate to represent Sorosis. An exceedingly valuable report was given by Mrs. Donald Affeck, of the Model House for the New York State Federation now on exhibition in New York city.

Mrs. Affeck went into considerable detail describing each of the rooms in the house. This report was followed by an able paper on "The Development of our National Literature," given by Mrs. Ramey, who brought her subject down to the present time and concluded with readings from Whittier's "Snowbound". Mrs. Hull gave a reading on Current Events. Next Monday Sorosis will meet with Mrs. Church.

Odds and Ends

S. D. Poole of Ancram has recently purchased an up-to-date wool sawing outfit from the Canfield Supply Company.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Reformed Church will be held Wednesday, November 3, at 3 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Lucas Bove, Main street. A full attendance is desired as plans for the turkey dinner on December 1 will be made.

THE JOINERS.

News of Interest to Members of Fraternal Societies.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the A. O. H. Division No. 4, will be held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Sullivan, 77 Abruyn street, instead of Tuesday evening.

Right Worshipful George W. Goudy, district deputy for the Greene-Union Masonic district, paid his official visit to Rondout Lodge, No. 243, F. & A. M., on Monday evening and was warmly welcomed. He delivered an interesting address and brought to the lodge the greetings and instructions of the grand master of the state. At the close of the meeting a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

On Thursday evening, October 28, D. D. President Miss Elizabeth Schwenck and suite of Albarbacht Lodge No. 357, of Kingston paid their official visit to Vineyard Rebekah Lodge No. 572, at Highland and installed the following officers for the coming year: Noble grand, Florence C. Blakely, P. D. P.; vice grand, Ruth Schofield; recording secretary, Margaret Smodes; financial secretary, Edna Tompkins; treasurer, Grace Schantz; wardens, Mary B. Reed; conductor, Mabel Alford; chaplain, Alvin Gruner, P. N. G.; inner guardian, Verlie Tompkins; outer guardian, Sara Gorrell, R. S. to N. G.; Lulu Schukie, P. N. G.; L. S. to N. G.; Katie Tompkins, P. N. G.; R. S. to V. G.; Ethel Swift, L. S. to V. G.; Flora Martin, R. S. supporter, Emma Johnson; L. S. supporter, Lena Dirk; S. P. N. G.; Florence Gruner; pianist, Martha C. Schantz. The retiring noble grand, Florence Gruner, was presented with a P. N. G. Jewel. Much credit is due the decorating committee as the lodge room looked very pretty with its pink and green streamers of crepe paper, autumn leaves and flowers. After the business meeting refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed. About 125 guests and members were present from Kingston, Sag Harbor and Marlborough.

Carroll Road Property Sold.
The Carroll hotel property at 440-442 Washington avenue has been sold by Mary A. Carroll and others to the Anne Carroll estate to Casper P. Clapp and wife of the town of Clapp, the sale having been made through Albert N. Cook, real estate broker.

No Membership Increased.
As the members of the Elks' Club will receive the election returns by radio this evening at the club rooms on Fair street, the regular rehearsal of the Bonadventure Club will be omitted.

Progressive Club Party.
A progressive club party will be held this evening at 8 o'clock by the J. O. F. A. Bonadventure band at the Bonadventure Hall, 14 Henry street. Refreshments will be served and prizes will be awarded.

A Darn Good Sport

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

(Copyright.)

JEREMY COLLINS had certainly played to hard luck, and now that he found himself out of a job and the house in which he lived about to be torn down to make way for an apartment house, he might easily have been pardoned for yielding somewhat to despair.

But he didn't. Instead he merely took up the question of their next move with his wife Emily, who was still pretty, despite worry, five children, and frequent illnesses.

"We might go to Illinois," was Emily's suggestion. "Not for good, you know, but until you get on your feet again. Olive adores the children and it would really be a treat to her."

"I had thought of that," confessed Jerry, "but wanted it to be your idea. Will you write?"

When Emily's sister Olive had read the letter, she refolded it and sat for a few minutes with her eyes fixed on something that was almost certainly not the faded wall paper opposite. Then she jumped up quickly and went into the sunny bedroom where her invalid mother sat by the window, her hands fretfully pulling at the fringe of her shawl.

"Mother, dear," she said brightly, "Emily and the children are coming for a little visit. Isn't that lovely?" Her mother looked up quickly.

"You aren't going to marry Dick and leave me to Emily's care?" her lip quivered.

"Oh, no, mother," said Olive. "Of course not. Now you just watch me through the door, while I fix up my room for some of them. I'll put in a crib for little Emily—she kissed her mother's wrinkled forehead and hurried out.

Three days later there was a merry hubbub of arrival, allotting of beds, drawers and closets, and of getting settled generally.

Jerry and Emily were very appreciative. "You don't know how heavenly this seems," said Emily when Olive brought her up a cup of coffee and a poached egg the next morning. "You're awfully good, Olive. Dick's going to get a good wife some day. Poor mother!"

Olive let the implication lie. She could not wish so dreadful a thing as the death of her sick and querulous mother, but both she and Emily knew that there was little chance of Olive's marrying Dick while their mother lived.

That very night she very nearly quarreled with Dick.

"I've half a mind to go to Florida," he said, "and become a millionaire over night."

"What a silly idea!" she cried. "If you want to Florida I should never marry you!"

"But to throw up a perfectly good job!" exclaimed Emily.

"A job that doesn't pay enough to get married on," said Dick significantly. "I might as well make a stab at something else."

Nothing more was said at the time, but the next night Jerry came home in wild excitement. "Going to Florida!" he yelled. "Yes, to Miami. Emily and the kids, too. By boat down the inland waterway. Dick made me think of it last night."

Nothing Olive had to say could dissuade him. He was planning to leave in just one week.

To Olive's surprise, Emily thought the scheme wonderful. "It may mean our fortune," she said. "Just think of it!"

The neighbors grew interested, especially those who had secret yearnings themselves to join the southward moving migration. "That's the kind of a wife for a man to have," said one of them. "A darn good sport."

Olive when she found that she could not prevent their going, busied about getting them ready.

On the day that they embarked, many friends gathered at the dock to see them off. Dick, as Olive had half hoped, was not among them. Yet he had seemed rather envious of Jerry and enthusiastic about their going.

In spite of herself, Olive felt downcast. It would be rather a lark to be going—well, almost anywhere. There seemed so little in the future to look forward to. Busy with her thoughts, she was startled to see Dick get out of a taxicab that had driven furiously up. He had a bag in one hand and waved wildly to Jerry who was standing away a few feet from the provisions.

"Want another passenger?" he cried. Olive went white. So Dick had done this cruel thing. Written until the last moment so that there would be no chance for her to protest. She watched him, quite oblivious apparently of her presence, go over and talk with Jerry.

Then he turned and came over to where she was standing. He must have seen her after all.

"Why, darling, how badly you must be feeling! So pale—and all. This is the most wonderful thing that ever happened to me. And Jerry will be glad of a passenger to pay his fare and help with running the boat. If our manager, you know, he's crazy to get South, and when he heard of Jerry's going he wanted me to get him this opportunity. And here's what it comes to. I am to take his place. He says, too, and we can get married, Olive. I come aboard to see Jerry about it and he's going to follow. Why, darling, you're crying! And you're usually such a darn good sport!"

A thick head guarantees this item.

Army-Syracuse Sever Relations

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 2 (AP)—Athletic relations between Syracuse University and the United States Military Academy at West Point have been severed for the present at least.

Chancellor Charles W. Flint of Syracuse, and Brigadier General M. B. Stewart, superintendent of the academy, announced simultaneously at their institutions that it was deemed advisable "to temporarily suspend athletic contracts" after a secret conference at which the Army-Syracuse football game of October 16 was discussed.

The conference was called at the suggestion of Chancellor Flint after five players were hurt in the Army victory. Two of the men, "Whippet" Carr, Syracuse ace and eastern high point scorer up to last Saturday, and Trappnell, star of the cadet backfield, suffered injuries which may keep them from the game for the remainder of the season.

Bayliger, Syracuse quarterback, resigned from the squad after he had struck Referee Victor A. Schwartz when ordered from the game for kicking an Army player.

The statement declared the officials had decided that while "recent developments in the athletic relations of their institutions involved no difficulties that could not be satisfactorily adjusted in time," it was deemed advisable "temporarily to suspend relations" until such time as may be mutually agreed upon by them.

The announcement stressed the fact that no judgment had been passed on what actually had taken place during the "past events."

Greenpoint Five Will Play Here Wednesday Night

Morgenweck Signs Up Grimsdell and Artie Powers To Help Strengthen Local—Greenpoint-Trenton Combination Second In League Standing.

All indications point to a strong contest on the armory court Wednesday night when the Kingston-Paterson five will do their best to send the Greenpoint-Trenton team down for a defeat. The Greenpoint boys have already proven that they are players of no mean ability by securing second place in the league standing, with the world-famous Celtics above them. Although the Kingston team stands fourth in the league they count on fighting hard to win over their opponents and Manager Morgenweck has secured two new players to strengthen his team.

"Swede" Grimsdell, former center of the Albany, N. Y. State League basketball team and later with the Visitation of the Metropolitan League, and Artie Powers, a former Kingston player who for the past three years has played with the Paterson aggregation in the Met. League, will be on hand to help lift Kingston to a higher berth in the standing of the clubs.

Grimsdell is known for his good work as a pivot man and much credit is awarded him for the success of the Albany team, managed by Bill Hoppenthal some years ago. When Grimsdell played with the Albany quintet he always kept his teammates supplied with plenty of taps and Ricorda, Marty Friedman, "Honey" Russell and Barney Sedran, all stars of the court, were kept busy with "Swede" in the center of the court. His work was also of high calibre when he played in the Metropolitan League.

Artie Powers will probably not start many games for the Kingston team but will be used for a reserve man and Morgie intends to utilize him if it is necessary to rest a fatigued player or in case of injury to one of the regular men. Powers will not be new to the fans of Kingston for he was a member of the pennant winning team of 1922-23.

Kingston will probably start the contest with Benny Borgman, Harry Ricorda, Nick Harvey, George Artus and either Knoblach or Grimsdell at center with Mickey Husta, Fritz Knothe and Artie Powers on the bench. The lineup for the opposing team will consist of Eggerts and Fahrre, forwards; Anderson, center and Darlow and Sullivan in the back court.

Dancing will follow the game and Matsenbelder's Orchestra will furnish the music.

POUGHKEEPSIE QUINTETT SEEKS GAME HERE

The Harmony Basketball Club of Poughkeepsie, Intermediate Champions of Dutchess county, are desirous of booking games with some of the leading clubs in Kingston or vicinity. Our fellows average about 145 pounds. They would like to hear from St. Mary's and St. Peter's and teams in their class. Tommy Moran, manager, 532 Main street, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Sport Briefs Of All Sorts

(By The Associated Press.)

A battle of hands between the halves should rival in thrills the meeting of undefeated New York University and Carnegie Tech in the Yankee Stadium Saturday. The Skibos boast an outfit of sixty pieces with the musicians sporting kilts and blowing the loudest of brasses. New York U.'s band starting the season with forty members, has grown steadily with each win until it now numbers 90. The saxophone market is due to burst wide open if the violet makes Carnegie the seventh straight victim.

While Gene Tunney basks in Bermuda sunshine resting from the round of entertainments that wore him down after Jack Dempsey failed to do so, the former heavyweight king is packing trunks for a jaunt to California and the training sledge that is to determine his comeback possibilities. Jack failed to call on the New York commission yesterday for a boxing license as friends said he would. He is visiting in Wilmington, Del.

Pinch hitters of the gridiron gain in prominence yearly. Harvard started the custom when Karl Pfaffman used to slip into games to boot a field goal and then slip right out again, to come back when needed. Paster Fields rarely starts a game but for three years he has starred in the Pennsylvania backfield. When Penn wavers and needs a spark plug, Fields is rushed into the gap.

Harvard, Yale, Brown and Cornell on successive Saturdays in the 1927 Dartmouth football schedule presage a strenuous season for the big green warriors.

Eight Teams Will Enter Mercantile Bowling League

Two More Teams Are Needed to Make Up the League—Constitution and Rules For This Year.

A meeting of the Mercantile Bowling League representatives was held at the Y. M. C. A. alleys Friday night in preparation for the opening of the bowling season. It was voted this year, to have eight, five-man teams to make it all one league.

Mr. Bailey of the Kingston Gas & Electric Company, was present as a representative for two teams from his organization. L. B. Van Wageningen Company, signified their willingness to participate. Mr. Bedford of the United States Lumber Mills entertained a bid for his concern. Mr. Clark of Kresge & Company, feels that they would like to combine their forces with those of Grant & Company as one team, and Mr. Hoderath of the high school faculty wishes to reserve a place on the schedule for the school professors. That gives a list of six teams, as a nucleus for an eight team league.

It was suggested that the secretary in charge submit invitations to the Schilling Furniture Company, National Ulster County Bank, Kingston Trust Company, Everett & Treadwell Company, and the K. & M. Silk Mills, in an endeavor to secure two more teams to make up the league. There would be no objections to any of the above combining forces, as long as the rules of the constitution were lived up to.

There will be a special meeting of the team representatives Tuesday evening, November 2, at 8 o'clock, for the important purpose of electing suitable officers. The meeting will not last over one-half hour.

The constitution and rules for this season are as follows:

Article I.
Purpose: To promote organized bowling among association members representing mercantile establishments in the city of Kingston.

Article II.
Organization: Section 1.—The officers shall be: President, vice president, secretary-treasurer, managing director.
Section 2.—The executive committee shall be composed of the above named officers.

Article III.
Board of Managers: Each mercantile house represented in the league shall elect or cause to be appointed one representative for each team in the league to serve on the board of managers together with the Y. M. C. A. physical director. This board shall elect officers at its first full meeting and shall conduct all business of the league. Seven members shall constitute a quorum.

Article IV.
Eligibility of Team: Section 1.—Each team entering the league must make a deposit with the treasurer of $5 before the first game. This money to be returned if the full playing schedule is finished.

Section 2.—Men to compete on a team must be bona-fide employees of the firm they represent and at least a social member of the Y.

Article V.
Games: Section 1.—League games are to be played on Monday and Thursday evenings, according to a schedule furnished at the beginning of the season.

Section 2.—Games shall be begun not later than 7:30 p. m. Teams not ready to play within fifteen minutes of the schedule time shall forfeit.

Article VI.
Forfeits: Section 1.—Any team forfeiting a game shall automatically forfeit the sum of $1 to the league.
Section 2.—Any team failing to complete its schedule, forfeits its deposit.

Article VII.
Amendments: This constitution may be amended by a two-thirds vote of those present.

Rules.
The playing rules of the league shall be Spaulding Official Bowling Rules.

A team shall consist of five men and substitutes.

Each team shall file a list of players with the manager of the alleys before the first scheduled game. Any manager entering a bowler or substituting after the filing of the list must first have the man passed upon by the executive committee, and upon favorable action by them.

That a dummy or blind score be used only in case of absolute necessity, and that it shall be the same as the lowest score of the competing team.

Only players and substitutes who have competed on the teams eligible for the championship series will be allowed to play in that series. No team can be entered after the league is closed.

No game can be postponed except by joint agreement of the two managers concerned and the physical director of the Y. M. C. A. If a team has a legitimate excuse for desiring to postpone a game they must secure the consent of the above named parties before 12 o'clock of the day the match is scheduled. All postponed games are to be played within two weeks' time and date to be set by the managers of the alleys.

Appropriate trophies and prizes will be presented.

Two trophies will be furnished for first and second place. The awarding of these cups will be:

A. The larger to the winner of the championship series.
B. The smaller to the loser of the championship series.

Money will buy a lot of things but it can't buy sports gear for your body that are as good as the original ones.
